"Life goes not backward, nor tarries with yesterday." Gibran's statement in The Prophet is an apt choice for the theme of this year's Lair. As students at Wheeling High School, we must look to the future. No one can predict what is to come, but we, as students, can influence it by getting the most out of our years at Wheeling. Just as a wildcat grows in its lair, we must make Wheeling a home in which we can prepare for our various destinies. Creating, learning, building, working, living—all are vital and necessary parts of our lives at Wheeling High School. The Lair policy is to emphasize the necessity of this forward look, to stress the need for future planning, and to bring home the idea that the creation of the future lies in the ever-crucial now.

Academics

Learning is an ever-present part of life. Every day, through study and effort, can a person advance himself. At Wheeling High School, students are of ten the choice to pursue the course of their learning and to direct it. By availing himself of the varied academic curriculum a student may advance and arrive upon a path which leads him through a life of achievement. The backward glance with yesteryear and Wheeling High School students strive to learn and to improve themselves so that they can go forward with time and not be left in some forgotten past. By taking advantage of excellent educational facilities and receiving the guidance of a highly trained faculty the Wheeling student develops from within himself a wiser person better equipped to explore, understand and meet the many challenges of the future. In fact, he does more than prepare to meet that future; he begins to create it.

Administration

As superintendent of District 214, Mr. Harold Sichenmyer is constantly planning, organizing, and observing. He devotes himself to the guidance of high school students, and, as executive of the school board, Mr. Sichenmyer takes the responsibility of supervising the activities within the high schools in District 214. A great many of this man's decisions affect us, as students of the district. Mr. Sichenmyer summed up his goal when he stated: "As the district continues to grow in enrollment, I hope it also grows in quality."

The school board, an integral part of our high school system, is concerned with the high school curriculum and courses offered in the high schools in District 214, as well as the requirements for graduation. The board is constantly faced with many problems in which they must make the final decision. A major requirement for any member of the school board is to be thinking which is necessary to cope with problems ranging from raising revenue for an educational program to "Should the band pay for the President?" The particular problem confronting the board this year is the expanding population within the district and the planning of future high schools to be built in the district.

The central administration plays an important role in the organization, education and activities of District 4. The chief executive officer is Mr. M. E. F., who is ultimately responsible for a high school in the district. The assistant superintendent, Dr. Gilbert, whose primary concern is the educational program and advancement, is in charge of the maintenance of budgetary and fiscal affairs. Mr. F. Coleman, director of business, is the man responsible for employing staff members. The director of personnel, Mr. N. L. W., in addition to these four men are five instructional coordinators: Mr. M. Lennor, Mr. Conrad, Mr. Lester, Mr. Fisher and Mr. Miller. These men work with the various divisions and departments in the high school. Two other members are Mr. White, the coordinator of guidance program in the district, and Mr. Randle, director of adult education and the summer school programs.

Working Together to Instrument School Policy

The voice we hear each morning reading the morning news is that of Mr. Thomas Shirley. As assistant principal in charge of instruction, his duties are quite extensive. Mr. Shirley received both a Bachelor's and a Master's degree in mathematics at Illinois State Normal University. Before coming to Wheeling High School, he served as Director of Adult Education at Arlington High School for three years and assistant principal of Forest View High School for two years. This background certainly qualifies Mr. Shirley to handle his various duties. These consist of the supervision of all extracurricular activities, the preparation and maintenance of student records, the registration and scheduling of students, homeroom activities, and the summer school program. Mr. Thomas Shirley, a skilled and busy man, contributes greatly to the organization and functioning of Wheeling High School.

Special Education

Wheeling High School has been equipped with excellent facilities for special education. Those that benefit from this program are the blind, the partially seeing, students with impaired hearing perceptually handicapped, EMH, and TMH. From these special areas in teaching comes the ability for the student to gain as much as possible from his high school education. Mrs. Peters assists blind pupils by acquiring books in braille or taped on records. Volunteer students transcribe books during study halls or after school. Another phase of our special education allows students to advance at their own rate of learning. Available are the tape recorders, head phones, lab materials, and a reading accelerator, which enables students to improve themselves.

Keeping a school such as Wheeler in running order would be a big job for anyone. The staff under the direction of Mr. W. Sager is certainly trying to do this. Through planning and hard work they have sought to maintain an air of cleanliness and order throughout the building and surrounding area. Along with the help of the student custodians, they have added to the appearance and safety of the school by keeping all equipment in good working condition.

Feeding 1600 students a day is a job that keeps Mrs. Hughes and her kitchen staff of nineteen busy full time. Keeping the cafeteria running smoothly, planning, preparing, and serving balanced meals are the main functions of the staff. A lot of thought goes into planning well-organized lunch periods. In addition, the staff often prepares food for special school activities such as athletic events, TPC suppers and awards banquets.

The goal of the English Department is to help the student in self-expression through organized writing and thinking.
 Courses in English and English literature are available for grammar school students who are already well prepared. In addition to the subjects already mentioned, the department offers enough studies of poetry, drama, and fiction for the English literature student. The department also offers literature during the student's senior year. The English department is interested in writing for the Spokesman, those who wish to make a career in writing, and the student who is interested in the English language, speaking, and more advanced study. The department is students who are interested in the area.

A Better Understanding of Ourselves

Through the Study of

The Department of Foreign Languages, headed by Mr. Rife, is a vital part of our high school curriculum. The goal of the foreign language department is to develop the student's ability to speak, understand, read, and write the language of his choice. In addition, this department provides students with a greater understanding of people, their customs, and their history.

In the first and second years of foreign language study, emphasis is placed on the spoken language, comprehension of basic grammar, and the essential aspects of reading and writing the language. In the more advanced courses, knowledge already obtained through basic studies is channeled into active application by reading the history and literature of the country.

Past and Present Cultures

Candi Jackson is a student who has completed Mr. Ahlberg's history course.

The Social Science Department seeks to create an understanding of past history which aids in the comprehension of the present world situation. World History has now two new texts. In the first, students understand the basic ideas presented in the course. As we learn more facts they read essays pertaining to the time period they are studying. Thus, students become aware not only of facts, but of the motivations of these facts. The actions and ideas of the past greatly affect our lives. This is the reason why American History is a required course. Through the study of past works, such as The Constitution, and the discussion of present events, such as the election, students gain a greater understanding of their country. Man is a creature of time. Only through understanding time can we understand himself and his surroundings.

Problems Solved With Experiment and Mathematics

In this highly technical age an understanding of science is not only beneficial but necessary to the individual. Through biology, the student learns the classification of living things. They also begin to understand the vast network of relationships among living things and their environments. In physical science rudimentary physics and chemistry are taught. To keep abreast of new theories, a new text is being used in the chemistry department. The courses offered in the field of science teach the student enough of the basic concepts so that he will be able to understand the scientific world and use this understanding constantly to enrich his daily life.

Science and Mathematics

A person is involved in mathematics in any career for which he is preparing. Both changing a recipe and studying electronics involve mathematics. The courses offered in mathematics range from basic math to Advanced Algebra I and Trigonometry. For the more advanced student, the accelerated math course is offered to give him additional challenge while helping him prepare for college work. All courses place emphasis upon accuracy in work as well as correct reasoning. These are two of the most important goals of this department. Thus the student is preparing for his future, no matter what direction it may take.

Not only preparing girls for careers as homemakers, but helping them to develop skills which will be useful during high school as well as in the future are two of the main achievements of the Home Economics Department. On the freshman and sophomore levels, girls learn the basic skills of preparing meals, and basic sewing techniques. Through these the students gain experience in skills which are necessary to all future homemakers. Learning does not stop at the mastering of basic skills, however. If a student has a particular interest in one of the many fields of home economics, she may take one of the semester courses which concentrate study in one particular area. Such courses offered are child development, interior design, family meals, ~~cooking~~ <sup>cooking</sup>, clothing, tailoring, and dressmaking. There are two labs used in the Home Economics Department, the food lab and the clothing lab. To facilitate learning, they are furnished with the latest modern equipment.

Providing Preparatory

Taken in proper sequence, the industrial education courses at Wheeling offer excellent background training for those who are interested in careers in the practical arts. Industrial Arts I is a good starting point from which to embark on a more comprehensive program. This course is divided into four parts, devoting one quarter to each of four branches: woodworking, metals, electricity, and mechanical drawing. From the most basic to the most complex, such as advanced electronics and engineer drafting all industrial education courses teach the important technique of being able to co-ordinate skills of the mind with manual dexterity to make a project come out according to plans.

The business courses at Wheeling are designed to meet everyone's needs. For those who want to become proficient in basic skills merely for their own benefit, courses such as social typing and shorthand are offered. Secretary- and business-bound students can take courses such as general business, bookkeeping, accounting, business English and business law. Students can even gain experience in the procedures of the average office day through courses such as office practice and office occupations which are centered around stenographic, secretarial, and clerical work. Distributive education is a co-operative program for students interested in sales and merchandise. This course includes fifteen to thirty hours of work per week under supervision. The business education department illustrates better than many that Wheeling High School applies stress to both preparatory and terminal education.

Wheeling High School students exercise not only their minds, but also their bodies. Through a comprehensive program, the girls of Wheeling have become skilful at a variety of sports such as basketball, badminton, softball and even courses in modern, folk, and social dance. These various activities not only provide enjoyment during the gym period but in addition, help them develop basic skills useful outside of school. Besides learning these skills, with the help of Mrs. Bolt, Miss Arendt, Miss Betts, and Mrs. Seymour the girls also learn one of the most important points which can be gained from a good physical education program such as Wheeling has: that is, the meaning of good sportsmanship, a quality which is valuable all through one's life.

Calisthenics + Sports = Aching Muscles

Jumping presents a danger when the landing is hard.

Coordination, alertness, and effort are essentials for success on the horizontal bar.

Practicing wrestling holds requires diligent concentration and competent instruction.

When parents of Wheeling High School boys read how important President Johnson considers physical fitness, when they hear a voice on the radio urging them to examine physical education programs in the schools, they can listen without alarm. Wheeling High School is concerned with the student's physical well-being as well as his academic development. In daily P.E. classes, boys are introduced to sports which they might not meet at home, such as wrestling, gymnastics, and weight training. Others keep their muscles in shape with rigorous calisthenics. Variety is one of the keynotes of Boys' P.E.—both in kinds of subject matter and in goals of the class. Wheeling is striving to build up more than tough teams to enter inter-school competition. It wants a smart, strong, skilled student body.

I KNEW I shouldn't have let him use my lock-

Classes

I'm sorry, Sonny, but your bus just left

Each student, merely by attending Wheeling High School, is entrusted with the many responsibilities belonging to his class. Through the year, the members of each class forgot that they had once been members of other classes in other schools. Ignoring these past divisions, each class went forward to build unity and school spirit. The instruments of this important work were the class boards. Each class sponsored dances and school events, aside from supporting the athletic teams of the class. In these ways, each student—even if he wasn't a member of the class board—could support his class and contribute to its functioning. In order to improve itself any organization must be made of members who work efficiently and effectively. Our classes, made of such members, strive to achieve these goals and better the entire school.

All School Events

late to m

To be truly educated, a student must not only attend school and study his assignments, but he must also participate in school activities in order to become a real part of the school, to learn about people and how to cooperate with them. This part of learning is not taught in classrooms, however, it must be obtained through the initiative of each student. Through meeting and talking with other students who share the same interests, by improving athletic skills, by working with other members on a team, in combining efforts with other students in order to create a play or produce a concert, a student will enjoy himself. Yet, at the same time, he will advance himself by preparing for the future. The additional responsibility of representing the school in these ways can serve only to improve the student's abilities to cope with and lead other people.

High School Politics

Axiomatically, students are a part of any school. Yet, ironically, in many cases, the students' ideas about that school which focuses around them are neglected. In order to utilize these ideas and opinions, Student Council operates as a form of government wherein the student has a chance to express himself and the student body to bargain with the administration. In order to facilitate communication, each homeroom has one council member. These members, under the leadership of Mark Newman and the guidance of Mr. Miller, work to serve the school and the student body. They are aided in this work by Vice President Linda Edwards, Recording Secretary Jeanne LaBandt, Corresponding Secretary Ann O'Donnell, and Treasurer Bob Krug. The Student Council also served the student body by sponsoring the Student-Faculty Basketball Game and the Variety Show and by publishing a student directory. During the Christmas season, the members distributed cards and decorated the building. Working with the American Field Service, they arranged for an exchange student to come to Wheeling next year. During the year the members also had the opportunity to participate in a Student Council Workshop at Forest View and a District Convention at York Township High School.

Life of the Wildcats

Yearbooks are made to hold memories of dances, sports, and student activities. However, the memories brought by this book to the Lair staff will be of an entirely different nature. Two recollections will be dominant: the thrill of having been the first Lair staff to establish yearbook traditions, the first to record the school's birth and earliest history, and the immense problems created by being the first in a school void of traditions. All staff members will recall the organizing; the planning of every page by page; the writing of copy; and the hectic hurrying which filled the year. As deadlines changed from shadowy threats to threatening realities, precious hours of vacation became work sessions. And work sessions became the 1965 Lair

Voice of the Wildcats

Reporting various aspects of student life, taking a stand on problems within the school, and speaking for the student body are all important functions of the Spokesman. Under the leadership of editor Kathie Barnes, the thirty-five member staff accomplishes this purpose. These energetic students collect news, write articles, and edit for accuracy and plan page layouts, and check each page word by word, before publication. Not content merely to report the news, the Spokesman takes an active part in initiating activities. It has sponsored a political poll and a Christmas short story contest. Overseeing all work is Mr. Nelson, sponsor of the Spokesman.

Spirit and Service

Those enthusiastic voices which cheer for our athletes at sports events and which are also heard seventh hour in the cafeteria every Thursday belong to the hard working members of Wheeling High School's Pep Club. The enthusiasm of the members is always present whether they are promoting school spirit or sponsoring a food, clothing and toy drive for needy families during the Christmas season.

"Be friendly and smile!" is the motto of the Hostess Club. The club, originally organized to provide quirtes for the Freshman Orientation, has reorganized since school started. With the help of Miss Johnson, their sponsor, the girls act as hostesses at such functions as T.P.C. meetings, Career Day and open houses. The work of this club has helped create many favorable opinions of the school.

Voluntarily Working for Others

The girls who serve as nurse or office guides share one important quality: they are voluntarily working for the betterment of the school. These students give up study halls to work in the guidance, attendance, or nurse's office and help the staff by aiding other students and by delivering passes.

More work than meets the eye is required for a smooth running library. The library staff is assisted by student librarians who work before, after, and during school. The Library Aids perform such duties as working in the magazine room, organizing periodicals, and checking books.

The Modern Music Masters, or Tr M, is an honorary organization composed of students who excel in both in music classes as well as in other academic classes. Membership is by invitation only, with the new members being inducted in a formal ceremony in the spring of each year. This year's Tr M, led by officers Gary Borilinski, Sue Sommers, Nancy McDonald, George Drake and Liz Keith, have attended a potluck supper at Maine East and have sold concessions at a basketball game to boost their treasury. Organized as a private group, members will give a concert for the faculty of District 214. Future plans of the club include planning a summer music scholarship to an outstanding music student.

Beauty in Precision

The Wheeling Drill Team—not just marching time

Under the direction of Miss Linda Markulin, the forty girls which comprise the Wheeling High School Drill Team display excellence, spirit, and enthusiasm as they brighten football games, basketball half-times, and school assemblies. Led by captains Linda Miner and Donna Pancamo, the members plan marching drills, co-ordinate steps with music, and continually work toward achieving perfection. Under the direction of Mrs. Seymour, the members of Orchesis also entertain at basketball games and school assemblies. Besides their daily class time during fourth hour, the Orchesis also holds rehearsals after school to perfect their modern dance performances. The highlight of the year for Orchesis members is their Christmas show.

A language comes alive only when one understands the people who speak it. The foreign language clubs at Wheeling acquaint interested members with the customs, history, and special problems of the people of other countries. This is accomplished through filmstrips, guest speakers, and general discussions. Language clubs also function as social gatherings with a cosmopolitan flair.

Two other special interest clubs are the coin and bridge clubs, in which students can compare ideas and gain information. Members of the coin club find it especially helpful to compare their own collections with those of other students. Novice bridge enthusiasts find that membership in this club increases their interest along with their capabilities.

Exploring Ideas and Issues

Debating is more than just being able to talk faster or more emphatically than ones opponent. The beginning sub variety and variety debaters learn how to reduce an argument to the logic behind it, to research a topic thoroughly, and to organize a case under the guidance of Mr. Goldman and Mr. Larson.

Topics ranging from censorship to Communist China are areas of discussion for the members of the Political Forum Club. Starting the year with an examination of political party platforms, the members and the sponsor, Mr. Kowit, exchanged opinions on many vital issues and listened to speakers discuss current problems and events.

Conveying a Mood Through Words

Learning and perfecting the art of self-expression is the area of concentration for those students participating in Individual Speech Events. This is accomplished by presenting original speeches—either extemporaneous speaking, original oratory, and after-dinner speaking—or by interpreting the works of others, in the form of prose, poetry, or dramatic readings. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Schachter help the students prepare for interschool tournaments by teaching them speaking techniques.

Building an image, creating a drama, requires work not always recognized by an audience. The members of the Drama Club, united by their interest in the various facets of theatrical production, work to make a script become more than spoken lines. The script is developed until it becomes an artistic unity. Club membership consists of those who appear on stage and the students who build settings or work on sound, lighting, and make-up crews.

Recreation Supplements Education

The newest club to join the roster of extracurricular activities at Wheeling High School is the Ski Club. Because of the growing popularity of this sport, the Ski Club was formed to teach members new and better skiing techniques, while providing transportation to and from local ski areas. Weekends find the members splashing into the snowy slopes during the trip, while the club sponsors joining the ever-growing number of ski enthusiasts.

The Girls' Recreation Association, or G.R.A., gives girls an opportunity to participate in intramural activities. The sports include volleyball, basketball, gymnastics, and softball. The Girls have a chance to release their energy and learn basic rules of the games. The girls also hold a Mother Daughter night, under the leadership of a board elected by the members. The club is sponsored by Miss Bolt, Miss Arendt, and Miss Bett.

Logic in Action

Wheeling High School students have the opportunity to study the world of science outside the regular classroom. The math club, sponsored by Mr. Ring, provides a chance for students to move from the world of logic and experimentation. In the math club, sponsored by Mr. Ring, students can come more familiar with the world of numbers and logic. A student in many cases can find that logic meanings may be applied to the club, sponsored by Mr. Anderson. The club is a group of students who are interested in the study of logic and experimentation. The club is a group of students who are interested in the study of logic and experimentation.

"Let's see now, is this equation balanced?" is the question asked many times during the year by members of the chemistry club trying to solve chemical problems and exploring the realm of the unknown in chemistry. This club is sponsored by Mr. Ring and Mr. Bowles, who help teach the members the importance of chemistry. Another club at Wheeling which explores the ramifications of matters of science outside of the classroom is the radio and electronics club, sponsored by Mr. Griffith.

Educational and Occupational Opportunities

Diversified Occupations, a relatively new form of vocational training, is one of the course plans offered to seniors at Wheeling this year. The D.O. Program, as it is often called, alternates on a half-day basis of regular high school studies and on-the-job training as an employee. Seniors who enroll in this program graduate with a regular high school diploma plus experience and a thorough knowledge of the trade in which they wish to continue.

Distributive Education, much like the Diversified Occupations Program, offers on-the-job training coordinated with school studies. Unlike D.O., which develops such trades as beauty care, tool and die making, and sales work, D.E. is concerned only with occupations where the employees are directly engaged in merchandising activities such as retailers and wholesalers. A regular high school diploma is earned in D.E. just as it is in D.O.

The Athletic Department, headed by Mr. Eliot 'Bus' Ormsbee has jurisdiction over all branches of athletics at Wheeling High School. It is the responsibility of the department to handle all scheduling of athletic events and supervise the purchasing of all equipment.

In the education of many students, the days spent in athletic competition are just as important as the hours spent in the classroom. It is on the playing field, whether grass, cinder, or hardwood, that habits of mental and physical discipline, good sportsmanship, and the important abilities both to lead and to follow orders are developed. Through long and tiring hours of practice, these traits necessary in all phases of life, are improved until perfected for upcoming competition. Every coach stresses to his athletes the importance of looking toward the future to the forthcoming contest. Once a game is played it is forgotten in preparation for the next struggle. All aspects of athletic competition hinge on a look-ahead attitude. For these reasons, the future, not the past, is important.

Athletic Excellence Recognized

The Varsity Club, under the sponsorship of Mr. John Hoffman, is a club dedicated to improving Wheeling High School in every possible way. Only varsity lettermen can belong to this selective organization. Initiation requires that the pledges work five long hours at tasks ranging from shoveling snow and mopping the field house floor to polishing the glass backboards in the gym.

Every treasury needs money, and the Varsity Club's is no exception. Its efforts have been directed toward such profitable undertakings as sponsoring a coke dance, and co-sponsoring the Fall Festival Dance and the faculty basketball game against Fenton High's faculty. This year's Varsity Club headed by President Jim Whittington, Vice-President Tony Stoik, Secretary Carl Meisenheimer, and Treasurer Paul Fiegen, had the responsibility of establishing tradition for the many clubs to come.

This year's fine sophomore squad, under coaches Sevig and Tipsword, finished the season as Mid-Suburban co-champs. Their wide open offense, led by standout quarter back Rich Haddock, and their tough defense proved to be too much for all but Deerfield. This excellent record did not come easily. It was the end result of long, hard hours spent on the practice field hours of working to improve blocking and tackling skills, hours of working at football that the spectators don't see. This is what makes a winning football team.

The freshman football squads were excellent in performance this year according to the football coaches. Mr. J. Miller and Mr. A. Kraft coached the "A" team this year, and Mr. J. Hittman coached the "B" team. Mr. J. Miller put the "B" team through their rigorous training. Coach Kraft states that the best games the "B" team played were those against Prospect and Wheaton. The "A" team commented that the game against Deerfield in which they won seven to zero, was their finest match. Next year we can all look forward to a first rank sophomore team.

High Hopes

The members of the fresh-soph cross-country team feel that for an entirely new team, their performance at each meet was excellent, good even though the harvest was only a few meet this season. The first win was against Glenbrook North with Wheeling finishing with 21 points and Glenbrook 35. There stands vast room for improvement as the cross-country team has just started to develop its runners. The boys are confident that next year the team will produce better results. This year's first and second men were respectively Greg Shorndon and Scott Posen. Their rank was determined by their performance during the season on the two mile cross-country course. The coach for the year was Mr. Gary Terts, a teacher in the science department. Coach Lyle Owens also helped in the preparation of the team.

Coach Mike Owen's varsity players struggled to overcome a two field handicap during their first year of varsity competition. They were hindered by lack of experience as the squad consisted mostly of boys with previous varsity experience. The real handicap between them and success was the newness of the school. Most varsity teams have had two or three years of playing as a unit and have learned to work as a well coordinated squad. Wheeling's varsity players have not had this experience as the starting five has been from three different schools. In spite of these barriers, the Cats did have several individual players, who put in hard play, which may sparked the team. They were Mark Newman, John Ferguson and Jerry Kerr.

The sophomore teams are unique in that they have represented Wheeling for two years. They were from Forest View.

The team was paced all year by the cage play of three boys; Rex Peterson was the outstanding ball handler. Skip Grandt, the number one performer under the boards, handled the rebounding. Greg Fydeski's accurate shooting from the outside provided the leading offensive punch.

Gymnasts' Record Proves Their Prowess

Wheeling's first varsity gymnastics team finished the season with a respectable fifth in the conference meet at Glenbrook South. Throughout the season Coach Wayne Savage counted on six boys to carry the team in competition. These six boys were led by Jim Bowler, who was defeated only twice and took second at the conference final. Other notable performers were Jerry Fontecchio and Rick Dyson, who provided a one-two punch in tumbling and trampolining. Other standouts were Don Savage on the side horse and [unclear] on the parallel bars, and Mike Bangs, who did the [unclear] in the high bar and category.

Competing in Quadrangular Meets

The Wildcat varsity grapplers, under the direction of Mr. Art Kraft, had a rough season this year, but they show much promise for the upcoming matches. The wrestling squad competed in a variety of matches this year. The quadrangular meets involved four teams from separate schools competing against each other. Wrestling took part in a quadrangular tourney against Arlington, Prospect, and Forest view. Perhaps one of the reasons that Mr. Kraft is so optimistic about the upcoming battles is that two of WHS's wrestlers, excepting only one in that match, Carl Meinenhoffer, a senior, stood third in the district, while Dave Eaton, a senior, came in fourth. Other top honorees on the team are Larry Kemp, Frank Abernethy, and Ted Armstrong.

Grapplers Display Skill and Agility

Wrestling is a sport which requires strength, speed, and agility. Coaches Frank Miller and Robert Schulze exerted much time and effort in training the grapplers in these essential qualities. Aching muscles caused by calisthenics, warmups, and practice, were common ailments among members of the frosh-soph squad. The boys followed roughly the same schedule as the varsity squad, a competition in quadrangulars and duals in which only two teams compete for the honors. The coaches picked out several boys who are possible candidates for the varsity level next year, and who also spent some time on the J.V. team. These boys were Bob Meitson, Ken Holiday, Phil Pete and Ray Weidner. Mr. Miller and Mr. Schulze are confident that next year Wheeling's teams will pose a threat to the other schools in the district.

Pitching for a Win

Like many other new teams, Wheeling had its own problems. One of the major ones was the year was that it turned high quality athletes into a team. Wheeling is well staffed with a number of excellent athletes, among whom were Mr. Charecky and Mr. Cwen. These two men were responsible for turning Wheeling High School into a baseball team, and variety and variety baseball team.

The first requirement for a top team is the players. Tryouts for the team were held in the early spring, and were held in a big way.

The second requirement for a top team is teamwork. Many of the players were put in after having been in a team from individual sports, and earned strategies which proved to be helpful on the field.

The third requirement for a team is that it has the will to win. Wheeling certainly has this. The Wheelers were ready to go in their first game of the season against Conant High School on April 10th.

Mr. John Berry's varsity golf team played a schedule of twelve matches plus the district and conference meets, with all home games being played at Long Grove Country Club. Wheeling's golf team are extremely fortunate for the new fieldhouse has outdone itself for indoor golf practice. In addition to the indoor driving range, there are also practice green sand shots from a built-in trap. This year Mr. Berry coached seven boys to bear the brunt of the attack. These boys, Bob Boenig, Dave Quirsfeld, Dick Fontecchio, Mike Saar, Dan Berry, Steve Poulos and Al Eisenstein have all attracted attention by exhibiting skill in some phase of the game.

Wheeling's varsity cheerleaders are Donna McKinnon, Linda Morales, Sue Ryan, Elaine Taylor, Ellen Boden, and Kathy Miley. The JV cheerleaders consist of Susan, Carla, Linda Rank, Kathy Taylor, Bonnie, and Barb. In addition, Mary P. and Lynne Ward. Both groups work with their manager, Mrs. Markham, to improve their skills. Cheerleaders are hard to find through the empty hallways, even in the halls where they practice cheer. A lot of girls at the cheerleader work to practice for the part they play in the cheer playing team in the gymnasium. They make posters and put them up. For those who are being a cheerleader is a lot of fun and a lot of work.

Traditions in the Making

The Fall Festival seemed to symbolize the successful opening of Wheeling. The festivities began with nominations for three princesses, who were presented at a special assembly. After voting, students anxiously awaited the bonfire and mixer where the results were to be disclosed. Friday night finally arrived, as amid a frenzy of cheers and music, everyone gathered around the bonfire and then thronged into the cafeteria for the mixer. With tears of joy, Linda Edwards, Leslie Christensen, and Barb Joynt were chosen to reign at the rest of the festivities. The disappointment of Saturday's football game quickly vanished that night as the week's festivities drew to a close at the Autumn Daze Festival Dance.

Excitement reached its peak at the Saturday afternoon game.

Etched in the night was the fire of enthusiasm.

The high point of Our Town was the marriage of Sherri Cunningham and Steve Ukris.

Talent Displayed

On February thirteenth and fourteenth, expectant audiences gathered to see Wheeling's first dramatic production Our Town, by Thornton Wilder. The play set in Grover's Corners, New Hampshire, was one of stark simplicity, involving chairs, tables, and ladders as scenery. While the stage manager related much of the tale, the actors pantomimed their actions. The three one-act plays—Aria da Capo, Overtones, and Trysting Place—were presented in the Little Theater on February nineteenth and twentieth. Of these, Aria da Capo was chosen to go to the contest at Deerfield.

On February first, the most outstanding vocal and band students of the District 214 high schools presented the Third Annual District Concert. The guest conductors were Mr. George Cavender, who directed the bands, and Dr. Bernhard Westlund, who conducted the festival choruses. A variety of music was presented with the band and chorus combination of "Born to be Free" climaxing an enjoyable evening of music.

Rhythm and Romance

The highlight of the Christmas season for many this year at Whittier was the Sno-Bus Mixer on the twenty-third of December. At the same time, the mixer was also a celebration of the school's twenty-fifth anniversary. The mixer was a night of brightly lit decorations and dazzling snowflakes. Christmas decorations were everywhere. Char Winfrey, the home princess, was crowned by the home prince, the home prince. The queen was crowned with a crown of flowers, and the prince was crowned with a crown of leaves. The mixer was a night of fun and games, and the money made at the mixer went toward the purchase of the costumes for the Christmas Spring Show.

Three elements of time: past, present, future.

Three abstract concepts—concrete in people and events.

Construction of Wheeling High School—the past realized

Attendance of daily classes—the present, alive

Time becomes a direction: forward.

Because this was the first yearbook publication at Wheeling High, the '65 Lair presented a special challenge to all those who were involved. We would like to thank all of those people who helped turn our first publication from a hope into a reality.

To Mrs. Penny Hirsch, faculty advisor, we express our gratitude for her guidance, for suggestion, and for helping us overcome our fears.

We are indebted to Wagner Studio for meeting our many demands in photographing Wheeling High. Our thanks also go to Bill Hunter for his valuable help in getting our photography work. We thank Mr. George Fredin and Sharon Vincent for design and cover for the '65 Lair.

For their technical assistance we thank the Taylor Publishing Company, and especially our representative, Mr. Bernard Cayan, for his frequent visits and concerted efforts on our behalf.

We want to thank Wheeling's athletic department for helping us in the picture of spring sports, although the teams were hardly named, and uniforms had not yet arrived.

Our greatest appreciation must go to the staff members who, despite lack of previous experience in yearbook publication, contributed time, effort, enthusiasm, and talent in creating the '65 Lair.

Hi John,
Boy am I privileged. I'm the first one to sign the back.
John, you a nut. Ya act shot goofy and crazy but stay like ya!
way cuz this summer but I like ya!
have fun, this summer but I like ya!
sure ya don't get caught!
Love ya much,
Carol
